About Chicago
Chicago has the third largest gross metropolitan product in the United States—about $547 billion according to 2012 estimates. Chicago has GDP of $ 557,745 million in 2014. Only the urban agglomerations of New York City and Los Angeles are larger. The city has also been rated as having the most balanced economy in the United States, due to its high level of diversification.

The US Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services industry includes over 17,000 facilities with combined annual revenue of approximately $50 billion. Including ancillary services, broader industry revenues represent over $300 billion combined.

Mental health and substance abuse market has grown at a 2.1% CAGR from 2008 to 2014E and is expected to grow at a 2.8% CAGR from 2014E to 2018P.

The city and its surrounding metropolitan area contain the third largest labor pool in the United States with about 4.48 million workers, as of 2014. In addition, the state of Illinois is home to 66 Fortune 1000 companies, including those in Chicago. The city of Chicago also hosts 12 Fortune Global 500 companies and 17 Financial Times 500 companies. The city claims one Dow 30 company: aerospace giant Boeing, which moved its headquarters from Seattle to the Chicago Loop in 2001. Two more Dow 30 companies, Kraft Foods and McDonald’s are in the Chicago suburbs, as are Sears Holdings Corporation and the technology spin-offs of Motorola. The headquarters of United Continental Holdings, are in the United Building and its operations center and its United Airlines subsidiary are in the Willis Tower in Chicago.

Chicago has been a hub of the Retail sector since its early development, with Montgomery Ward, Sears, and Marshall Field’s. Today the Chicago metropolitan area is the headquarters of several retailers, including Walgreens, Sears, Ace Hardware, Claire’s, ULTA Beauty and Crate & Barrel.

Chicago is a major world convention destination. The city’s main convention center is McCormick Place. With its four interconnected buildings, it is the largest convention center in the nation and third largest in the world. Chicago also ranks third in the U.S. (behind Las Vegas and Orlando) in number of conventions hosted annually.
