About Brussels, Belgium

Brussels city is capital of Belgium. It is located in the valley of the Senne (Flemish: Zenne) River, a small tributary of the Schelde (French: Escaut). Greater Brussels is the country's largest urban agglomeration. It consists of 19 communes, or municipalities, each with a large measure of administrative autonomy.

Belgium has a rich tourism industry and its cities are small and culturally diverse. There are many interesting facts about Belgium that travellers may be interested to find out. Brussels' climate is temperate and mild with winter lows of about 1°C and summer highs of around 23°C. There is rain all-year round. There are three official languages in Belgium: French, Dutch (Flemish) and German.

The two main universities are the Université Libre de Bruxelles, a French-speaking university with about 20,000 students in three campuses in the city (and two others outside),[and the Vrije Universities Brussels, a Dutch-speaking university with about 10,000 students. There are about 4 top universities related to neuroscience and behaviour in Belgium and about 30 research institutes.

The annual mortality rate per 100,000people from epilepsy in Belgium has increased by 31.4% since 1990; an average of 1.4% a year.at 14.4 deaths per1000, 000woman in2013.the peak mortality rate for woman was higher than that of men, which was 12.6 per 1000,000 men.
