Market Analysis for Gastro 2017

Rome, Italy

Summary

Gastro 2017 highlights the theme “Exploring new dimensions of Gastroenterology”. It mainly focuses on the latest diagnostic and therapeutic techniques for gastric diseases. It discusses the latest research outcomes and technological advancements in the field and brings together leading gastroenterologists, surgeons, physicians, research scholars, students along with industrial and pharma professionals to exchange and share their views on critical aspects of gastroenterology research. There have been increases in the incidence of most gastrointestinal disorders in Europe which have major implications for future healthcare provision. Gastrointestinal cancer is the leading cause of cancer death in Europe. Recent studies of market value of GI therapeutics for major diseases in the eight major markets is expected to decrease in value from $6.8 billion in 2012 to $6.6 billion by 2019 forecasts business intelligence provider GBI Research. The major factors currently stabilizing the market include the increasing prevalence of GI diseases, growing awareness of the importance of detecting these diseases early and the availability of effective diagnostics creates an urgent need for organizing this gastro conference.

Global Market value of gastrointestinal therapeutics

Recent studies of market value of gastrointestinal therapeutics shows differences in different parts of the world. In 2012, the value of the gastrointestinal therapeutics market in major developed countries amounted to an estimated $6.8 billion. This total is forecast to decline at a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 0.3% between 2012 and 2019. The value of the IBS market amounted to an estimated $727m, and is forecast to increase at a CAGR of 14.4% between 2012 and 2019. The value of the UC market amounted to an estimated $2.2 billion in 2012, and is expected to increase at a CAGR of 6% during the forecast period. The value of the CD market amounted to an estimated $3.8 billion, which is expected to decline at a CAGR of 7.5% between 2012 and 2019.
Physician statistics

Health-care systems vary among countries and we were interested in how this might impact on gastroenterology manpower. The number of gastroenterologists in Canada and compared this with four countries where data were available over the Internet in either French or English. The number of gastroenterologists per 100,000 of the population was 3.9 in the United States, 3.48 in France, 2.1 in Australia, 1.83 in Canada, and 1.41 in the U.K. This variation in number of gastroenterologists was not reflected in the overall number of specialists per 100,000, which was similar in all five countries. Furthermore, the difference in gastroenterology manpower did not correlate with the amount of gross domestic product spent on health care. Countries with a low number of gastroenterologists per 100,000 all had a strong primary-care gatekeeper system, although this observation may be coincidental, as only five countries were studied. Canada had the most equitable distribution of gastroenterologists across the country with only modest differences among provinces. The United States had the most variation in the number of gastroenterologists per 100,000 of the population among states.
