About Toronto

Toronto, the provincial capital of Ontario, Canada, is a large, ethnically diverse city sprawling along Lake Ontario's north-western shore. Toronto is positioned in the middle of the newly formed Québec-Ontario Life Sciences Corridor - the second largest life sciences cluster in North America. The Corridor plays a major role in the advancement of life sciences discovery and its related commercialization.

Toronto is a leading international centre of business, finance, arts, and culture, and is widely recognized as one of the most multicultural and cosmopolitan cities in the world. The Toronto/Ontario biotech cluster is the largest in Canada with 163 companies. Nearly 50 global pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies have their Canadian headquarters in the Toronto region. Toronto's Discovery District is a centre of research in biomedicine, It is also home to the Medical and Related Sciences Centre which was created in 2000 to capitalize on the research and innovation strength of the Province of Ontario, There are over forty hospitals located in the City of Toronto. Many of them are also medical research facilities .Princess Margaret Cancer Centre is one of the Top 5 Cancer Research Centres in the World which is located in Toronto. A dynamic metropolis with a core of soaring skyscrapers, all dwarfed by the iconic CN Tower, it also features abundant green spaces, from the orderly oval of Queen's Park to 400-acre High Park and its trails, sports facilities and zoo.
