About NEW ORLEANS
New Orleans is a Louisiana city on the Mississippi River, near the Gulf of Mexico, with a 2013 estimated population of 378,715. It is considered as 8th metropolitan area in United States. New Orleans ranks 12th among U.S. Cities for infrastructure jobs. With more than 20 colleges and universities located in the city. New Orleans is the best place in the USA for creative professionals, beating 175 other major cities. New Orleans ranked the 6th Best City for Young Entrepreneurs.

New Orleans is the transportation hub of the United States, via highway, railroad, and air, with Louis Armstrong New Orleans International Airport being the world’s busiest airport. New Orleans encompasses an area of 907 sq.km.

New Orleans has a humid subtropical climate with four distinct seasons and generous precipitation year-round, typical for the inland South. Summers are hot and humid, with temperatures somewhat moderated by the city’s elevation.

New Orleans, while located in the South, has a culture that is no longer strictly Southern. This is due to a large population of migrants from other parts of the U.S., in addition to many recent immigrants to the U.S. who have made the metropolitan area their home, establishing New Orleans as the cultural and economic hub.

New Orleans is the seventh-most visited city in the United States, with over 35 million visitors per year. The most popular attraction among visitors to New Orleans is the French Quarter, Aquarium of the Americas, Jackson Square and many sight-seeing places. Tourism industry is mostly driven by the city’s history museums and outdoor attractions.

Nicknamed the “Big Easy,” it’s known for its round-the-clock nightlife, vibrant live-music scene and spicy, singular cuisine reflecting its history as a melting pot of French, African and American cultures. Embodying its festive spirit is Mardi Gras, the late-winter carnival famed for raucous costumed parades and public partying.
