MARKET ANALYSIS

The neurology sector is poised for significant growth through 2024, driven by increasing rates of neurological diseases, advancements in technology, and rising research funding. Despite challenges such as high costs and regulatory hurdles, ongoing improvements and expanding healthcare infrastructure are expected to open up new opportunities. The market, valued at USD 1.2 billion in 2020, grew to USD 2.4 billion by 2022 and was around USD 3.32 billion in 2023. It is projected to reach approximately USD 6.42 billion by 2032, reflecting a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 7.60%.

The surge in neurological disorders, including Alzheimer's and Parkinson's diseases, is a major driver of market expansion. Contributing factors include an aging population, improved diagnostic tools, and genetic influences. For example, Parkinson's disease impacts nearly 90,000 people annually in the U.S. Additionally, neurostimulation devices, which modulate brain activity to manage chronic pain and neurological disorders, are gaining popularity.
