MARKET ANALYSIS

The gynecology and obstetrics market is experiencing significant growth, driven by factors such as increasing awareness of women's health, a growing aging population, and rising fertility treatment demands. Valued at approximately USD 22 billion in 2025, the market is projected to expand at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6–7% from 2023 to 2030. Within this framework, it's important to examine emerging trends and opportunities in maternal care, reproductive technologies, and minimally invasive gynecologic procedures. This surge is linked to the rising incidence of pregnancy-related complications, hormonal disorders, and gynecologic cancers. Modern tools and technologies are enhancing diagnostics, improving outcomes, and promoting patient-centered care. The diversity of women's health concerns also varies with age, lifestyle, genetics, and geographic region—further shaping the demand for specialized and advanced care.

ABOUT VENUE

Rome, the Eternal City, stands as a captivating blend of ancient history and modern charm. As the capital of Italy, it is renowned for its iconic landmarks, rich cultural heritage, and vibrant lifestyle — making it a premier destination for global conferences and tourism alike.

While Italian is the official language, English is widely understood, especially in professional, academic, and hospitality settings, ensuring smooth communication for international visitors.

Visiting Rome in December offers a magical experience. With mild daytime temperatures around 12°C (54°F) and cooler evenings averaging 5°C (41°F), the crisp air adds to the city's festive atmosphere — ideal for sightseeing, networking, and enjoying seasonal markets and lights.

Rome also embraces its cultural legacy through year-round festivals, classical performances, and culinary celebrations, offering visitors an immersive taste of Italy's timeless elegance and warm hospitality.
