4th International Conference on

Womens Health and Well being

November 26-27, 2025 | Dubai, UAE

https://womenshealth.cmesociety.com/

INVITATION

Womens Health 2025

Dear Esteemed Colleagues and Delegates,

It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to the 4th International Conference on Women's Health and Well-being, taking place on November 26–27, 2025, in the vibrant and innovative city of Dubai, United Arab Emirates.

Building on the success of our previous gatherings, this year's conference brings together professionals, researchers, and advocates dedicated to advancing the field of women's health. With a focus on key areas such as reproductive health, gynecology, fertility, breast and ovarian cancer, menopause, and holistic well-being, the event serves as a comprehensive platform to exchange ideas and showcase cutting-edge research.

Set against the dynamic backdrop of Dubai—renowned for its global outlook and commitment to progress—our program features two days of high-impact presentations, expert-led sessions, and collaborative discussions. The agenda is thoughtfully curated to foster dialogue across disciplines and empower participants with knowledge and strategies to improve the health and lives of women worldwide.

We warmly encourage all attendees to engage actively, share insights, and help drive forward innovation in women's health care. We look forward to welcoming you to Dubai for an enriching and impactful experience at Women's Health 2025.

Warm regards,
Sophia Wilson
Program Director

MARKET ANALYSIS

The global women's health market is experiencing significant momentum, driven by increased awareness, improved healthcare access, and ongoing advancements in medical technologies and research. According to Fortune Business Insights, the women's health market was valued at approximately USD 40.29 billion in 2022 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 8.4%, reaching over USD 65.1 billion by 2030.

Key drivers of this growth include the rising prevalence of conditions such as breast and ovarian cancer, polycystic ovary syndrome (PCOS), menopause-related complications, reproductive health disorders, and maternal health issues. Additionally, greater attention to preventive care, mental well-being, fertility services, and personalized medicine has expanded the scope of women's health services worldwide.

In this dynamic context, the 4th International Conference on Women's Health and Well-being in Dubai will provide a vital forum to explore the latest developments, evidence-based practices, and innovative solutions in women's healthcare. By bringing together experts, clinicians, researchers, and policymakers, the conference aims to foster meaningful dialogue and collaboration to advance global women's health and wellness.
