MARKET ANALYSIS

The global "long-term care facility market" is growing rapidly. The global healthcare sector continues to face new challenges in the ongoing pandemic that continues to dominate the attention and resources of the healthcare system. In particular, the nursing profession is expected to have a large increase in employment from 2017 to 2022 in the United States. As the latest reports have shown, nursing positions will increase by 7% by 2022. Registered nurses are now very preferred in Europe. Europe has 22 universities and 100 hospitals, with hospitals accounting for 30.54% of all dollars spent on health.

Nursing jobs are projected to increase by 9% from 2020 to 2030, which is about the same as the average for all professions. According to a report by The Business Research Company, the size of the global grooming market is expected to grow by about 9% annually to about $ 1 trillion by 2022.

The global medical device market is projected to maximize by 2027 and grow at a tremendous CAGR between 2021 and 2027.

ABOUT VENUE

London, the capital of England and the United Kingdom, is a 21st-century city with history stretching back to Roman times. At its centre stand the imposing Houses of Parliament, the iconic 'Big Ben' clock tower and Westminster Abbey, site of British monarch coronations. Across the Thames River, the London Eye observation wheel provides panoramic views of the South Bank cultural complex, and the entire city.

London has been described elsewhere in this article as a polycentric city. The map of Elizabethan London shows that fields and the river separated distinct centres: the City of London with its shipping, trade, and crafts; Southwark with its gardens, hospitals, and theatres; and the royal court at Westminster. The economy of contemporary London has evolved continuously from the three complementary elements of trade, administration, and leisure. London is one of a handful of trade centres—along with New York City, Tokyo, and Hong Kong—where dealers in currencies, equities, commodities, and insurance operate on a global scale. In the first half of the 20th century it was also a substantial manufacturing centre. In contrast to the other great cities of Britain, London's factory closures have been compensated at least partly by the city's dynamism in financial services and the media.
