MARKET ANALYSIS

The global psychiatry and mental health sector is poised for substantial growth in the coming years, fueled by heightened public awareness, growing acceptance of mental health issues, and continued advancements in therapeutic solutions. As of 2020, the global mental health market was valued at approximately USD 140.3 billion and is projected to expand at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 14.3% through 2028, according to Grand View Research.

One of the primary drivers of this growth is the increasing prevalence of mental health disorders across all age groups. The World Health Organization reports that one in four individuals globally will experience a mental health condition at some point in their lives. This surge in cases has intensified the need for accessible and effective mental health services, including counseling, pharmacological interventions, digital therapies, and community-based care.

The 9th Global Experts Meeting on Psychiatry and Mental Health in Paris aims to address these pressing challenges and opportunities by bringing together leading professionals, researchers, and stakeholders from around the world to discuss innovative strategies, emerging research, and collaborative solutions in mental healthcare.
