MARKET ANALYSIS

Wound care is the process of treating and managing injuries that affect the skin and underlying tissues. The primary goal is to promote healing, prevent infection, and minimize scarring. The global wound healing economy is projected to grow from $20.8 billion in 2022 to $27.2 billion by 2027, with a 5.4% CAGR. The Czech Republic offers a range of benefits for hosting a wound care global conference, including its central location, well-developed infrastructure, world-class conference facilities, cultural attractions, quality accommodation, and high-quality medical education. North America held the largest market share in 2020 and is expected to maintain that position throughout the forecast period. The market in Europe is growing due to an increase in the geriatric population and chronic diseases. The Asia-Pacific region is predicted to have a CAGR of 7.2% over the forecast period of 2022 to 2029, while the market in Latin America is anticipated to develop at a CAGR of 5.50%.
