MARKET ANALYSIS

According to studies, the US aerospace (NASA) and defence industry will increase from USD 416.63 billion in 2020 to USD 550.78 billion, growing at a CAGR of about 2.37% over the forecast period (2021-2030).

US AEROSPACE AND DEFENSE MARKET - GROWTH, TRENDS, COVID-19 IMPACT, AND FORECASTS (2022 - 2027)

The US Aerospace and Defense Market is Segmented by Type (Commercial Aviation, General Aviation, Military Aviation, Unmanned Aerial Systems, and Space Systems and Equipment). The report offers market size and forecasts by value (USD billion) for all the above segments.

The COVID-19 epidemic is inflicting an unprecedented disruption in the US aerospace and defence industry. The industry is anticipated to recover in 2021, however the two constituent sectors are anticipated to rebound at different rates. For instance, the pandemic has had a substantial impact on the commercial aerospace industry, led to sharp decline in passenger traffic, which has had a negative impact on aircraft demand. As a result, it is anticipated that the commercial aerospace industry will eventually recover by 2023, when travel demand is predicted to return to pre-COVID levels, However, given that the United States has not trimmed its defence spending and is still dedicated to maintaining its military capabilities, the defence industry is anticipated to remain steady and even increase. Nevertheless, some defence initiatives may experience temporary cost increases and delays as a result of the widespread supply chain disruption.
