MARKET ANALYSIS

The worldwide oncology market is expected to reach more than US$ 581.25 billion by 2030, with a substantial CAGR of 8.2% expected to take place between 2022 and 2030. In 2021, it was forecast to be worth US$ 286.04 billion. According to an article in Cancer Connect 2020, researchers from the Dana Farber Cancer Centre found that during the COVID-19 pandemic, diagnoses of the six most frequent cancer types- breast, colorectal, lung, pancreatic, gastric, Cancer Pharmacology, and oesophageal cancers- decreased by 46%. Global healthcare systems have been impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic, and the market for cancer therapies has also been significantly impacted.

Indication Insights

The market was dominated by the lung cancer category in 2021, as a result of an increase in lung cancer incidences worldwide. Over 1.8 million deaths from lung cancer were documented in 2020, according to the International Association for Research on Cancer. Of the world's population, lung cancer is the cancer type that is most quiet often diagnosed, and it is responsible for around 18% of all cancer fatalities.

Region Insights

In terms of global oncology sales in 2021, North America was in the lead. The rising incidence of cancer in developed nations like the US is to blame for this. Almost 1.8 million new instances of cancer and 606,520 fatalities were recorded in the US in 2020, according to the American Cancer Society.

ABOUT VENUE

Vienna, Austria's capital, is located on the Danube River in the east of the nation. Vienna has a very international spirit while retaining its distinctive beauty and flair. The city is renowned for its Imperial palaces, especially Schönbrunn, the summer home of the Habsburgs.

Residents like Mozart, Beethoven, and Sigmund Freud helped to shape the city's cultural and intellectual history. This is strongly emphasised by its stunning old architecture, famed Fiaker horse-cabs, and superb coffeehouses with their world-famous Viennese sweets and pastries. Works by Egon Schiele, Gustav Klimt, and other painters are on display in ancient and modern structures in the Museums Quartier sector. It continues to be the major commercial and cultural hub of Austria.

Vienna continues to lure more than 17 million visitors each year with its many top-notch historical sightseeing options, illustrious art collections, glistening palaces, and distinctive musical tradition. This appreciation of the nation's rich culture is still clearly evident in Vienna's superb museums, outstanding music halls, and one of the world's greatest opera houses.

Climates during October in Vienna:

April, May, September, and October are the best months to visit Vienna because they fall in the spring and fall shoulder seasons. These months are perfect because of the mild weather, affordable prices, and wide availability.

In October, Vienna experiences an average daytime high temperature of 14°C. In the evening, it can go as low as 7°C. Unexpectedly, there is less rain than in the summer; you can anticipate 40mm over nine days of rainy weather. In Vienna, October sun exposure is fairly minimal.

Abstract submission opens: APRIL 01, 2023 | Registration opens: APRIL 01, 2023
