MARKET ANALYSIS

The Neuroscience market studied is anticipated to grow with a CAGR of nearly 4.1%, during the forecast period. Certain factors that are driving the market growth includes rising disease burden of brain-associated disorders, advancement in the field of neuroscience and neuro-technology and increasing R&D expenditure and government funding. Neurovascular disease is a leading cause of adult disabilities and death and includes any abnormality of the blood vessels within or supplying blood to the brain and spine. This includes narrowing of the arteries, which decreases blood flow to the brain and increases the risk of a stroke. Additionally, a neurovascular disease may cause the weakening of the arteries that can lead to brain aneurysms and other conditions that increase the risk of a stroke.

According to National Health Service, roughly 3% of adults in the United Kingdom have a brain aneurysm. That means that these 'unruptured' brain aneurysms affect about 3,000 people in every 100,000. Yet only about eight of these 100,000 adults will have a bleed from an aneurysm in any one year.

ABOUT VENUE

Madrid is a central capital of Spain, city of elegant boulevards and expansive, manicured parks such as the Buen Retiro. It's prominent for its rich repositories of European art, including the Prado Museum's works by Goya, Velázquez and other Spanish masters. The core of old Hapsburg Madrid is the portico-lined Plaza Mayor, and nearby is the baroque Royal Palace and Armory, displaying historic weaponry.

Madrid is located on the River Manzanares in the central part of the Iberian Peninsula. Capital city of both Spain and the surrounding autonomous community of Madrid, it is also the political, economic and cultural centre of the country. The city is situated on an elevated plain about 300 kilometres (190 mi) from the closest seaside location. Seasonal differences are massive by Iberian standards with hot summers and cool winters.

Owing to its economic output, high standard of living, and market size, Madrid is considered the major financial centre and the leading economic hub of the Iberian Peninsula and of Southern Europe. The metropolitan area holds major Spanish companies such as Telefónica, Iberia, BBVA and FCC. It concentrates the magnitude of banking operations in the country, and it is the Spanish-speaking city generating the largest amount of webpages.

Madrid accomodates the headquarters of the UN's World Tourism Organization (UNWTO), the Ibero-American General Secretariat (SEGIB), the Organization of Ibero-American States (OEI), and the Public Interest Oversight Board (PIOB). It also holds major international regulators and promoters of the Spanish language: the Standing Committee of the Association of Spanish Language Academies, headquarters of the Royal Spanish Academy (RAE), the Institute of Cervantes and the Foundation of Emerging Spanish. Madrid organises fairs such as FITUR, ARCO, SIMO TCland the Madrid Fashion Week. Madrid is an abode to two world-famous football clubs, Real Madrid and Atlético Madrid.
