MARKET ANALYSIS

During the projection period, the Data Science Platform market is expected to increase from USD 95.3 billion in 2021 to USD 322.9 billion in 2026, with a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 27.7%. The Data Science Platform industry is driven by the astounding growth of big data, but also by the rising adoption of cloud-based solutions, the growing use of data science platforms in various industries, and the growing need to extract indepth insights from voluminous data to gain a competitive advantage.

Due to the rise of social media, IoT, and multimedia, which have produced an overwhelming flow of data in either structured or unstructured format, the volume of data gathered by enterprises is constantly expanding. For example, in the last two years alone, about 90% of the world's data has been created. Machine-generated as well as human-generated data is growing at a rate ten times faster than traditional commercial data. Machine data, for example, is growing at a 50-fold quicker rate than human data. Consumer data is generally consumer-driven and oriented. The majority of the world's data is generated by consumers, who are increasingly 'always-on.' Most people these days spend 4–6 hours per day using a range of gadgets and (social) applications to consume and generate data. New data is created in a database somewhere around the world with every click, swipe, or communication. Because everyone now has a smartphone in their pocket, the amount of data created is staggering.

ABOUT VENUE

Madrid is the capital of Spain, and is home to the Spanish Royal family as well as the Spanish Government. It is a modern metropolitan city and an economical and industrial center of Spain, and, with its population of nearly 3,5 million people, is also the biggest city in Spain.

It is located in the centre of the Iberian Peninsula, and is surrounded by mountains and natural parks. Although it is located in the centre of the country, it has traditionally been the hub between different areas of Spain and is therefore connected to all major Spanish cities by train, road or air.Madrid has a lot of interesting attractions that offer both culture and amusement. The city is full of great monuments, like the royal palace, the Plaza Mayor or the many statuettes, and for people interested in art, the museums Del Prado, Reina Sofia or Thyssen have some of the most fantastic collections of famous Spanish painters like Velazquez, Goya, Picasso or Miro.

If you like to be entertained, Madrid has two big amusements parks (including the new Warner Bros park) and there are regular international concerts, big flea markets, parades and other activities going on.To sport enthusiasts Madrid can offer everything from skiing (only 1 hour away by bus) during the winter, to golf all year round, as well as international sporting events and the possibility to practice nearly any sport at the University facilities.If you like going out at night, Madrid has a very interesting nightlife throughout the whole week and which is available all year round. You can either go out for a tapa (Spanish snack), eat at a very nice restaurant, go to the cinema or one of the many theatres, or find nearly any type of bar or disco.
