Nurses' help patients cope with illness and overcome it. They have a unique scope of practice and can practice independently, although they also collaborate with all members of the health care team to provide the care needed by each patient as an individual. Nurses advocate for their patients and patients' families by the development and management of nursing care plans and instruct patients and their families. As educators, they help whole communities by teaching individuals and groups how to take steps to improve or maintain their health. Nursing renders a wide range of employment opportunities including probationary practitioners to doctoral-level researchers. Nurses are hands-on health professionals who provide focused and highly personalized care.
