Market Analysis

PULSUS
WWW.PULSUSCONFERENCE.COM

The healthcare sector was estimated at USD 127.6 billion in 2019 and is expected to rise at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 14.2 per cent from 2020 to 2027. Rising patient growth, policy efforts to digitize healthcare and the incidence of chronic diseases are expected to raise the need for smart healthcare systems. Digitalization has changed the healthcare system. Health usage has grown dramatically over the last few years, largely due to the growing use of smart phones and digitalization. According to the global Healthcare Customer Sentiment Report, in 2019, nearly 35.6 per cent of citizens dependent on internet or Smartphone devices for their medical consultations.

An efficient healthcare system may lead to a considerable portion of the growth, creation, and industrialization of a nation. The meeting on healthcare covers diverse areas such as primary care, secondary care, tertiary care, quaternary care, home treatment and group services. Nurses create a treatment strategy, collaborating in partnership with doctors, nurses, the patient, the families of the patient and all members of the staff, centered on managing illness to increase the quality of life. Nurses may also organize the services received by certain members of a multidisciplinary health care team, such as nurses, medical professionals and dietitians.

Health care is one of the most important components of your life. Disease or illness can mean a wretched turn in your life. As a result, the biggest asset we can have in life is health-no doubt, health is wealth. Nursing is a profession in the health care sector that is absorbed in the care of individuals, families and communities in order to achieve, maintain or restore optimal health and quality of life. Nurses may be discriminated against by their approach to patient care, training and practice from other health care providers. Many nurses provide care within the competence of physicians, and this traditional role has come to shape the historic public image of nurses as a care provider.
