The persistent elevation of blood pressure in the arteries is known as Hypertension (HTN) or High Blood Pressure (HBP), which is a long-term medical condition. Many cases fall under the primary category where the blood pressure rise is due to non-specific lifestyle and generic factor like excess salt in diet, smoking, and alcohol use. Some cases come under secondary blood pressure where the cause can be identified as chronic kidney disease, dementia, etc. High blood pressure is present if the resting blood pressure is persistently at or above 130/90 or 140/90 mmHg. One of the strongest muscle in the human body is the heart which is just the size of a fist. In general heart is a pump that supplies blood to the entire human body. Heart is vulnerable to breakdowns and failures. Heart failure leads to numerous diseases together known as Cardiovascular diseases as coronary heart disease, rheumatic heart disease, hypertensive heart disease, congenital heart disease, inflammatory heart disease and heart attack
