Market Analysis

Mental Health is a priority, Happiness is an essential, Self-care is a necessity"

Mental Health is a level of psychological well-being and it includes "subjective well-being, perceived self-efficacy, autonomy, competence, inter-generational dependence, and self-actualization of one's intellectual and emotional potential". Therapists, Psychiatrists, Psychologists, Mental Health professionals, Social workers, Nurse practitioners or Physicians can help oversee mental illness with treatments, for example, therapy, counselling or medication. Mental illnesses are more typical than cancer, diabetes, or heart disease. A WHO report assesses the worldwide cost of mental illness at about $2.5 trillion (66% in aberrant expenses) in 2010, with an anticipated increment to over $6 trillion by 2030. As indicated by government sources, 60 % of mental health professionals are clinically trained social workers, 10 % are psychiatrists, 23 % are psychologists, and 5 % are psychiatric nurses.

Mental wellness is generally viewed as a positive attribute, even if the person does not have any diagnosed mental health condition. This definition of mental health highlights emotional well-being, the capacity to live a full and creative life, and the flexibility to deal with life's inevitable challenges. Some discussions are formulated in terms of contentment or happiness. Positive psychology is increasingly prominent in mental health.
