MARKET ANALYSIS

In total, the European market for neurological devices was estimated to be worth €1.3 billion in 2022. This is anticipated to grow at 4.2% CAGR over the projection period to reach about €1.8 billion.

Cerebrospinal fluid management devices, detachable coils, liquid embolics, neurovascular guidewires, neurovascular catheters, neurovascular stents, aneurysm clips, balloon occlusion devices, neurovascular thrombectomy devices, ultrasonic aspirators, neuromodulation devices, intrathecal pumps, stereotactic devices, and transcranial magnetic simulators are all included in the full report suite on the European market for neurological devices.

Over 190,000 neurological device procedures were carried out in Europe in 2022. Cerebrospinal fluid (CSF) shunting, liquid embolization of AVMs, interventional aneurysm therapies, aspiration thrombectomy, implantation of neuromodulation devices and intrathecal pumps, and ultrasonic aspiration will all be covered in this analysis.

The number of neuromodulation devices that are eligible for reimbursement is capped in the Benelux region, which reduces the amount of spinal cord stimulation devices that may be sold in a year and lowers the average selling price of deep brain stimulation devices.
