MARKET ANALYSIS

The market for certified Nursing Medicare facilities in the United States was estimated to be worth USD 179.0 billion in 2022, and from 2023 to 2030, it is anticipated to increase at a CAGR of 3.43%. The demand from investors for Skilled Nursing Facilities (SNFs), which offer high-quality care services at a considerably cheaper cost than hospitals, is enormous. The U.S.'s growing elderly population and high prevalence of numerous chronic diseases are driving the market's expansion. In the United States, there are currently 54 million adults 65 and older, or roughly 16.5% of the population, according to the United States Census Bureau. There are a large number of elderly individuals in the nation, and this number is predicted to keep growing until 2050, when the total number of persons 65 and over is projected to reach 85.7 million. This translates to almost 20% of the country's overall population.
