MARKET ANALYSIS

The global market of nursing is increased up to $1,010.1 billion to $1,058.6 billion in between 2019 to 2020. Mainly due to covid there is huge demand of nurses. It will expected that the growth of market at a CAGR of 7% from 2021 and reach $1,374.9 billion in 2023. But according to World Health Organization (WHO) the reports says that nearly 6 million more nurses will be required by 2030 to provide standard quality healthcare n once the COVID-19 has passed. In recent years, the global market for nursing professionals has grown. Despite the fact that primary health care is provided, the nursing profession has specialization. Some of them include Certified Nursing Assistants (CNAs), Licensed Practical Nurses (LPNs), and Licensed Vocational Nurses (LVNs), as well as Surgical Assistant Registered Nurses, Emergency Room Registered Nurses, Labor and Delivery Nurses, and Nurse Case Managers.

According to the American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN), there will be roughly 2.99 million registered nursing employments in 2020, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). According to the BLS, the field is expected to grow by 9% through 2030, creating more than 276,000 jobs with chances in more than 100 specializations ranging from school or camp nurse to cardiac care.

ABOUT VENUE

As the capital of the UK, of art, and fashion, London is unquestionably one of the most stunning cities in the whole world.

No matter how much time you have here, there are a zillion things to do and see in London: London has the highest concentration of 5-star hotels in any city and is one of the most traveled cities in the world. London, one of the main global cities, has a significant impact on the fields of the arts, entertainment, fashion, commerce, finance, education, health care, media, science, and technology, as well as tourism, transportation, and communications.

37% of all trips in London are taken on public transportation, compared to 36% on private transportation, 24% on foot, and 2% on bicycles. The United Kingdom's train, aviation, and road transportation systems all converge on London's public transportation system as their primary hub.

With 24-hour service, London's bus route network traverses the whole city. Numerous buses operate at night and may be recognized by adding the letter N in front of their regular number; for instance, bus number 15 becomes N15 at night.
