MARKET ANALYSIS

The global pathology market is divided into two segments:

Anatomic Pathology and Clinical Pathology. Anatomical pathology is the study of organs and tissues, while clinical pathology is the study of body fluids and cells. The global pathology market will reach USD 49.7 billion by 2027 and is projected to grow at a CAGR of 5.8% from 2020 to 2027.

Increasing prevalence of chronic diseases is expected to boost the growth of the pathology market. Aging population, rising diabetes, cancer, and cardiovascular disease are some of the key factors driving the demand for pathology services. Technological advances in pathology such as automation techniques, digital pathology, and image analysis are also expected to boost the market growth. Rising demand for personalized medicine is also expected to boost the market growth.

High cost of pathology testing is expected to be one of the major factors restraining market growth. A shortage of skilled professionals is also expected to restrain the market growth.
