Market Analysis

Psychology 2020 is a field of Medicine deals with the Study of Mental health disorders, diagnosis and its treatment. This focuses on the diagnosis, avoidance, early treatment and recovery of an individual Mental health. Where, Psychology is the base for well-being and active functioning for an individual and for a Community. Most of the data was based on estimates of Global Burden of Disease (GBD) from the IHME. This is currently one of the only resources that produces global statistics of the prevalence and disease burden of mental health and drug use disorders.

It is estimated that in 2017, 970 million people worldwide were suffering from a mental or substance use disorder. The largest number of people undergone an anxiety disorder, estimated of about 4 percent of people.

Significantly numbers of indirect deaths by suicides and self-harm are also linked to mental health disorders. Deaths of suicides are strongly connected- although not always due to- mental health disorders. The increasing prevalence of behavioural disorders and increased awareness of the therapeutic options available are primary driving factors for the market. Rising government initiatives, such as grants from the Association for substance Abuse and Mental Health Services and the Affordable Care Act, to increase investment in programs to eliminate substance abuse are expected to fuel market growth over the forecast period.

Modern researchers found that people in U.S., Afghanistan and India currently have strong mentally disorders, according to WHO. About 300 billion people worldwide are suffering from mental illness. This disease is not taken seriously, and death rates are rising nowadays due to depression, anxiety, and stress. The country which tops the research in this field are USA, Europe, Oceania and East Asia. The above result and conclusions are clarified as a result of Number of Articles published in the field of psychiatry in which the US tops the first position followed by UK, Germany, Australia and Canada.

About City and Venue

PULSUS
WWW.PULSUSCONFERENCE.COM

Paris is the capital and most populous city of France. Paris is located in northern central France, in a north-bending arc of the river Seine whose crest includes two islands, the Île Saint-Louis and the larger Île de la Cité, which form the oldest part of the city. Paris has a typical Western European oceanic climate which is affected by the North Atlantic Current. The overall climate throughout the year is mild and moderately wet. Paris has been one of Europe's major centres of finance, diplomacy, commerce, fashion, science, as well as the arts. The centre of Paris contains the most visited monuments in the city, including the Notre Dame Cathedral and the Louvre as well as the Sainte-Chapelle. Les Invalides, where the tomb of Napoleon is located, and the Eiffel Tower are located on the Left Bank south-west of the centre. For centuries, Paris has attracted artists from around the world, who arrive in the city to educate themselves and to seek inspiration from its vast pool of artistic resources and galleries. As a result, Paris has acquired a reputation as the "City of Art". Italian artists were a profound influence on the development of art in Paris in the 16th and 17th centuries, particularly in sculpture and reliefs. Painting and sculpture became the pride of the French monarchy and the French royal family commissioned many Parisian artists to adorn their palaces during the French Baroque and Classicism era.
