Charlotte, North Carolina, USA

Pulsus Group takes pride in getting the endorsements of prestigious societies and medical research assosiations world wide.

Global Market:

The global virology market is expected to bloom over 2015-2025. In 2015, the virology industry was highly influenced by Ebola, MERS, and hepatitis C viruses. In 2016, zika virus is dominating the research, with more better prospects in the near future. By 2017 end, a few important patents are approaching expiry, including Tamiflu, Sustiva, Tenofovir, Combivir, Relenza, and Telbivudine. With the expiry of these blockbuster drugs, the market is estimated to encounter a dynamic competitive landscape. The generic competition in the virology market will be in this high pace from 2017 onward. Europe is projected to maintain the position as the second largest market globally. During the forecast periods, USA is anticipated to record the highest CAGR, governed by enhanced healthcare infrastructure, access to diagnostics, and enhanced affordability of diagnostic tests for viral diseases.

About City

Charlotte is the second largest city in the southeastern United States. Charlotte is home to the corporate headquarters of Bank of America and the east coast operations of Wells Fargo, which along with other financial institutions makes it the second largest banking center in the United States. Charlotte has a humid subtropical climate. The city is located several miles east of the Catawba River and southeast of Lake Norman, the largest man-made lake in North Carolina. Lake Wylie and Mountain Island Lake are two smaller man-made lakes located near the city. Charlotte has nine Fortune 500 companies in its metropolitan area. In 2013, Forbes named Charlotte among its list of Best Places for Business and Careers. The Charlotte region is home to many annual festivals and special events. The Carolina Renaissance Festival operates on Saturdays and Sundays each October and November. Located near the intersection of Highway 73 and Poplar Tent Road. Charlotte is home to two major professional sports franchises: the Carolina Panthers of the National Football League (NFL) and the Charlotte Hornets of the National Basketball Association. Charlotte constitutes most of Mecklenburg County in the Carolina Piedmont. Charlotte center city sits atop a long rise between two creeks, Sugar Creek and Irwin Creek, and was built on the gunnies of the St. Catherine's and Rudisill gold mines.
