Invitation

The PULSUS Group cordially invites all participants from around the world to the "6th World Congress on Womens Health and Midwifery" which will be held in Prague, Czech Republic, on July 11-12, 2022. This includes skillful keynote presentations, flourishing poster presentations, verbal speeches, and exhibitions.

Pulsus Group created and implemented this activity to enhance womens health. Womens Health 2022 is an interdisciplinary event with a variety of pathways to choose from in each area, giving you a unique opportunity to interact with professionals from industry and academics and form a scientific network between them. All concerned people are invited to attend our event and help us make it a success.

We make sure the event is a mix that covers gynaecologists, Healthcare scientists and academics, doctors, nurse associations, and makes the Womens Health 2022 conference a suitable platform because it is our concept at PULSUS to deliver maximum exposure to our attendees.

Womens Health 2022 is an annual conference for gynaecology and midwifery organisations, as well as committees, to explore the future of reproductive medicine in terms of collaboration, frameworks, and organisational development.

We hope you will join us in Dubai and spend some of your valuable time to help influence the future of Womens Health research by sharing your research work and skills.

Theme: " Explore the recent trends in Womens Health"

We hope to see you on the day of the event..

Regards
Belinda Paulson

15 YEARS IN ASSESING THE IMPACT OF HEALTHCARE RESEARCH

Prague is known for its well-preserved castles, Baroque and Gothic cathedrals, mediaeval squares, romantic bridges, exciting nightlife, and vibrant arts scene. It's famed for its centuries of history and cultural legacy, and its cobblestone streets may be felt as the mediaeval heart of Europe.

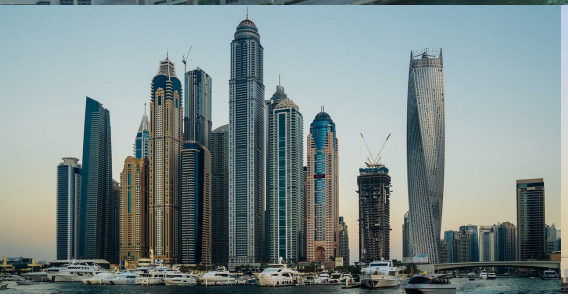

Prague is noted for its rich architecture and museums, as well as its diversified nightlife and extensive shopping opportunities. It's also known for its substantial food and inexpensive beer, as well as its well-kept UNESCO World Heritage city centre.

Prague, known as the 'City of a Thousand Spires,' is one of Europe's architectural treasures. The city has been a significant UNESCO World Heritage Site that attracts an increasing number of tourists each year, ranging from Gothic and Baroque to Renaissance and Art Nouveau styles.

Prague is a city to roam about in, immerse oneself in, discover new areas, and eventually find a good location to sit for a drink while letting your problems fade away. The Vltava River, which passes through the city's heart, will soon come into view as you proceed.

To summarise, Prague is a must-see destination. It is a little city with several noteworthy historic monuments that are easily accessible on foot. Many sites have no need to charge admission because their beauty is best appreciated from the streets.

While the majority of traditional Czech meals contain meat, some of the best Czech cuisine served in Prague is naturally vegetarian. You won't be spoiled for choice, but you will be able to eat something wonderful, from fried cheese to dumplings!
