

Title 1: Prep vs. no-prep in all ceramic restorations.

Name: Roberto Turrini
DDM, Via Negrelli 131, 61122, Pesaro, Italy

Nowadays the clinicians have at their disposal high-performance materials that can help them facing esthetic and functional treatments using minimally invasive prosthetic techniques. This lecture will consider both prep and no-prep techniques for a perfect result in anterior and posterior areas.
The different types of ceramic materials will be analyzed in depth and indications will be given on how to chose the ideal ingot and the correct protocol of cementation, especially in case of thin veneers.
Indications and limitations of prep and no-prep techniques will be clearly illustrated in order to guide the clinicians both for simple situations and complex rehabilitations, however using always minimally invasive procedures.

Title 2: Whitening techniques in association with prosthetic procedures in the esthetic area.

Name: Roberto Turrini
DDM, Via Negrelli 131, 61122, Pesaro, Italy

Nowadays the clinician is faced with the difficult challenge of covering discoloration sometimes quite severe. Currently we can use extremely predictable techniques of dental bleaching, allowing sometimes to avoid the covering discolored elements, achieving excellent results in terms of aesthetics and durability.
The choice of extremely versatile products, together with the use of appropriate techniques, facilitates the clinician in cases of discoloration of medium severity.
In contrast, in more complex situations, which require changes in shape, color and position, it is possible to use high-performance ceramic materials, in order to perform high aesthetic masking restorations.
