About Brussels

Belgium, is a sovereign state in Western Europe surrounded by France, the Netherlands, Germany, Luxembourg, and the North Sea. It covers a zone of 30,528 square kilometers (11,787 sq mi) and has a population of around 11 million individuals. Belgium is home to two primary gatherings: the Dutch-talking, , which comprises around 59% of the populace, and the French-talking, which constitutes 41% of all Belgians.

Belgium is a sacred government with a parliamentary arrangement of administration. It is separated into three areas and three groups that exist by each other. Its two biggest locales are the Dutch-talking area of Flanders in the north and the French-talking southern district of Wallonia. The Brussels-Capital Region is a formally bilingual (French and Dutch) enclave inside the Flemish Region. It is the center of European culture and institutions and has much more to offer than most people know. Besides its famous for beers and chocolates, there are about 90 museums, architecture, beautiful parks, bars etc. Brussels is the main economic and educational hub of Belgium, which adds to the city's more workaday feel than the rest of the towns.
