About Rome

London is the capital and largest city of England and the United Kingdom. The River Thames travels through the city.London is the biggest city in western Europe, and the world's largest financial centre. London is about 2000 years old. London was founded by the Romans. It was called Londinium by the Romans. For a long time, London was a small city. All its people lived inside the walls that were built by the Romans. This area is still called the City of London. There were many villages around the city. Gradually, more people came to live there. Then, step by step, the villages joined together into one huge city.London is one of the world's most important cities for business, finance, and politics. It is also important for culture: media, entertainment, fashion, and art. The population of London is 8.63 million .Most people in London are British. However, London also has many immigrants. These people come from many different countries. They speak many different languages and have different religions and cultures. There are also many people from different countries who stay in London on business. Many people visit London as tourists. They may see the famous "Sights of London". These sights include palaces, churches and museums. The Romans built a city called Londinium on the River Thames in the year AD 43. The name Londinium (and then 'London') came from the Celtic language of the Ancient Britons. In the year AD 61, the city was attacked and destroyed. Then the Romans rebuilt London. London became an important trading city. After the Romans left Britain, few people lived in the city for a long time. This is because the Anglo-Saxon people liked living in the countryside an did not like city life. In the 9th century, more people started living there again. It became the largest city in England. However, it did not become the capital city of England until the 12th century.
