Market Analysis Report:

When we consider Active Pharmaceutical Ingredient API, the global Active Pharmaceutical Ingredient (API) market size was valued at USD 158.15 billion in 2018 and is estimated to expand at a CAGR of 6.8% over the forecast years. Advancements in API manufacturing and growth of biopharmaceutical sector are expected to be the key factors driving the market. In addition, increasing geriatric population across the globe is also anticipated to contribute to the market growth.

According to the Canadian Patient Safety Institute (CPSI), annually around 8,000 patients in Canada die due to HAIs and approximately 220,000 patients are infected with such disease. Targeted therapy is gaining popularity as it only aims at cancerous cells. The characteristics, such as minimum effect of the drug on noncancerous cells, and effectiveness possessed by these anti-cancerous drugs are the factors contributing to the market growth.

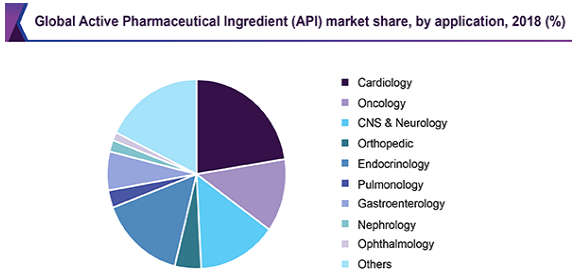

Based on type of synthesis, the market is segmented into biotech type and synthetic type. The biotech type is further classified into monoclonal antibodies, recombinant proteins, and vaccines. Synthetic segment led the overall market in 2018, in terms of revenue share, owing to easy availability of raw materials and simple procedures of synthesis. Biotech molecule was expected to be the fastest-growing application segment and is expected to register a CAGR of 7.5% during the forecast years.

Based on the manufacturer type, the market is categorized into captive and merchant APIs. Captive segment held the largest share in 2018 owing to intensive capitalization of major key companies in development of high-end manufacturing facilities and availability of raw materials. Merchant API segment is expected to be the fastest-growing segment owing to factors, such as rising demand for biopharmaceuticals and high cost of in-house manufacturing of these molecules.

Based on type, the market is segmented into generic and innovative APIs. Innovative drugs segment led the overall market in 2018 due to increased R&D initiatives for novel drug development and favorable government regulations. Rising number of new entrants in this segment is also expected to propel the market growth. Generic drug segment is estimated to be the second fastest-growing segment due to factors, such as patent expiry of branded drugs and lower cost.

Based on application, the market is segmented into cardiology, oncology, CNS & neurology, and endocrinology. Cardiology segment led the overall market in 2018 owing to the increasing prevalence of target diseases worldwide. According to the WHO, CVDs, particularly heart attack and stroke, account for around 17.5 million deaths across the globe. Cardiovascular disease is one of the global, critical public health burdens, responsible for extensive R&D for APIs in the field.

Some of the key companies in the market are: Teva Pharmaceutical Industries Ltd, AbbVie Inc, Boehringer Ingelheim International GmbH, Cipla Inc, Merck & Co Inc, Bristol-Myers Squibb Company, Albemarle Corporation, Mylan N.V, Aurobindo Pharma, Sun Pharmaceutical Industries Ltd and Dr. Reddy's Laboratories Ltd.
