About San Diego

Why San Diego: San Diego is the 2nd largest city in California and 8th largest in the United States. According to education rankings released by the U.S. Census Bureau, 40.4 percent of San Diegans ages 25 and older hold bachelor's degrees. The census ranks the city as the ninth-most educated city in the United States based on these figures. San Diego is a city on the Pacific coast of California known for its extensive beaches, parks, warm climate, natural deep-water harbor, long association with the United States Navy and recent emergence as a healthcare development center. Immense Balboa Park is the site of the world-famous San Diego Zoo, as well as numerous art galleries, artist studios, museums and gardens. A deep harbor is home to a large active naval fleet with the USS Midway museum, an aircraft-carrier-turned-museum and open to the public. San Diego is renowned for its idyllic climate, 70 miles of pristine beaches and a dazzling array of world-class family attractions. San Diego offers an expansive variety of things to see and do, appealing to guests of all ages from around the world. The city has two major commercial airports within or near its city limits. Downtown San Diego International Airport (SAN), also known as Lindbergh Field, is the busiest single-runway airport in the United States. San Diego hosts several major producers of wireless cellular technology. Qualcomm was founded and is headquartered in San Diego, and is one of the largest private-sector employers in San Diego.
