About the conference

Join us for the 6th Global Summit on Agriculture & Organic Farming, scheduled for October 23-24, 2025 in Paris, France. This premier event will bring together researchers, industry leaders, policymakers, and practitioners to foster collaboration and innovation in sustainable agriculture. Featuring inspiring keynote speeches, insightful presentations, and engaging discussions, the summit will spotlight advancements, emerging trends, and transformative practices in agriculture and organic farming. Attendees will have the opportunity to connect with experts from Agriculture Associations, Organic Communities, Sustainable Farming Societies, and Agri-Tech Organizations, exploring the impact of innovative technologies and effective policies on the future of global agriculture.

Theme: Cultivating a Greener Future: Innovation and Sustainability

Why to attend the conference

The future of agriculture is shaped by innovation, sustainability, and the need to address global challenges like food security and climate change. Advancements in precision agriculture, smart farming technologies, and genetic engineering are enhancing productivity and resilience. Sustainable practices like organic farming and regenerative agriculture are preserving ecosystems and ensuring long-term viability. Digital transformation, including big data and AI, is optimizing resource use and market connectivity. Climate-resilient crops and circular economy approaches are addressing environmental concerns. Emerging markets in organic and plant-based products, coupled with global collaboration and inclusive policies, are creating new opportunities.
