INVITATION

Dear Attendees,

Welcome to the European Congress on Climate Change and Environmental Health (Hybrid Conference), which will take place in Paris, France, on May 25th and 26th, 2022. CLIMATE SUMMIT 2022 is being organized in collaboration with the Journal of Climatology and Weather Forecasting, which will publish all conference abstracts.

The Journal of Climatology and Weather Forecasting is a publication dedicated to climatology and weather forecasting. Climatology & Weather Forecasting is an interdisciplinary as well as a specialised publication that publishes high-quality manuscripts in the fields of basic, fundamental, applied, and development climatology and weather forecasting.

"Recent innovations and upcoming trends in climate change for a healthy environment" is the conference's theme. Attendees and participants will be able to learn extremes thanks to scientific tracks created just for this conference.

Climate Summit 2022 will focus on the most recent and interesting developments in all fields of Climate Change and Environmental Health, providing a unique chance for researchers from all over the world to interact, network, and learn about new challenges. Workshops, symposiums, and special keynote sessions led by distinguished and recognized speakers are part of this conference. This conference also invites young people to participate actively.

Target Audience:

- Climate Change Researchers, Scientists, Faculties, Students
