Congestive Heart Failure-2026

About the conference

The 6th World Congress on Congestive Heart Failure & Angina, scheduled for April 29–30, 2026, in Paris, will bring together leading clinicians, scientists, researchers, and healthcare professionals to address key challenges in cardiovascular medicine. This global event offers a dynamic platform for sharing ideas, presenting cutting-edge research, and exploring the rapidly evolving field of cardiology.

The 2026 congress will highlight themes such as heart failure pathophysiology, advanced diagnostics, pharmacological and non-pharmacological therapies, interventional cardiology, regenerative approaches, and digital health innovations. Featuring keynote sessions, symposia, oral and poster presentations, workshops, and expert panels, it encourages collaboration across academia, industry, and clinical practice.

Whether you are a researcher, clinician, or industry innovator, this congress provides an essential opportunity to engage with global experts and contribute to advancements in heart failure and angina care.

Theme: Innovative Strategies and Collaborative Care for Advancing Heart Failure and Angina Management

Why to attend the conference?

Attending this conference offers a powerful mix of knowledge, networking, and opportunity. Gain valuable insights into the latest strategies and innovations in congestive heart failure and angina. Engage with top cardiologists, heart failure specialists, interventional experts, clinical researchers, and key healthcare leaders shaping cardiovascular care across Europe.

Strengthen your professional network, explore new collaborations, and present your work to an international audience to boost your visibility. Access focused sessions on advanced cardiac imaging, heart failure phenotyping, ischemia and angina diagnostics, innovative therapeutics, biomarker-driven risk stratification, and cutting-edge cardiovascular devices.

Participate in practical workshops that translate evidence into real-world applications, and enjoy the cultural richness of Paris while being part of one of Europe's most influential healthcare conferences.
