INVITATION

Dear Attendees, Food Chemistry Meet 2027 welcomes researchers, scientists, academicians, and industry professionals to the 20th World Congress on Food Chemistry and Food Microbiology, taking place on June 17–18, 2027, in London, UK. With the theme "Innovating Food Science for a Safer, Healthier, and Sustainable Future," the conference will provide a platform to present recent research, exchange scientific knowledge, and explore emerging developments in food chemistry, microbiology, nutrition, and food safety. Join us for valuable scientific discussions, international networking, and opportunities for collaboration with professionals from around the world.

Regards,
Stella mitchell |Program Manager
Organizing Committee | Food Chemistry Meet 2027

ABOUT VENUE

Your London, the capital of the United Kingdom, is a globally renowned destination known for its historic landmarks, cultural diversity, scientific excellence, and dynamic modern lifestyle. As one of the world's leading international cities, London provides an attractive setting for scientific conferences, academic gatherings, and professional events. Its extensive international transport connections, public transportation network, accommodation options, and established business facilities make the city convenient for delegates traveling from different parts of the world. Visitors can discover London's iconic attractions, including Big Ben, the Houses of Parliament, Buckingham Palace, Tower Bridge, the Tower of London, London Eye, Westminster Abbey, and St. Paul's Cathedral. The city also offers world-class museums and galleries, including the British Museum, Natural History Museum, Science Museum, Victoria and Albert Museum, Tate Modern, and National Gallery, providing visitors with opportunities to explore history, science, art, and culture. In addition to its famous landmarks and museums, London features beautiful parks and gardens, historic neighborhoods, diverse restaurants, traditional British cuisine, international dining, cafés, shopping districts, theatres, and vibrant cultural attractions. Delegates can enjoy exploring the city after conference hours, taking sightseeing tours, walking along the River Thames, visiting museums, or experiencing London's renowned theatre and entertainment scene.
