Market Analysis:

Food Technology and processing deals with the techniques and principles involved in Food Technology, processing, preserving and packaging of the food substances. The application of food processing helps in the production of safe, wholesome, long-lasting and nutritious food products.Global Market:The global food processing and technology market is expected to reach over $250 billion at a CAGR of 5.8 through 2015 to 2022. Every field of food technology and processing market is growing at an alarming rate. The food technology and processing industry is growing globally at 3.5% a year and is soon expected to grow more than 7 trillion dollars by 2014. The new trends for product development are in health, preservation, packing, convenience, nutritional quality and sustainability. Fruit and vegetable based foods fulfill the demands of a rich consumer while the functional food is one of the fastest growing segments of the international food industry. The wider healthy food market, which includes sports drinks, nutrition supplements is estimated to be worth US$200 billion..

Food Packaging Global Market:

The Food packaging market is expected to grow at a CAGR of 4% during the forecast period 2017-2023 with the advent of numerous production facilities and with the objective of catching up with latest trends in the market. The global market is expected to increase $19,268 million by 2023, from $14,740 million in 2016, listing a CAGR of 4.0% from 2017 to 2023. Growing demand of packed food by customers owing to hastening pace of life and unstable eating habits is estimated to have a major impact on the industry..

Scope and Importance:

Food market is much diversified in most countries as more emphasis is given to functional foods and ready to eat foods. There is tremendous scope in every section of food whether it is fast food, health foods, baby foods, pet foods, ready to eat foods, chocolates, confectionaries, etc.

More research is being carried out in the food sector to bring out new foods which are healthier and which will provide better nutritional value with less cooking. So countries spend lot of money in R&D sector of Food Processing and technology.
