About the conference

The 34th International Congress on Global Nursing, Midwifery, and Nursing Research, taking place on May 28-29, 2025, in the iconic city of Paris, France, is a premier event dedicated to advancing the fields of nursing and midwifery. This congress, under the theme “Shaping the Future of Global Healthcare: Elevating Nursing and Midwifery Practices,” aims to inspire innovation, foster collaboration, and drive transformative change in global healthcare.

This dynamic gathering serves as a global platform where nursing and midwifery professionals, researchers, educators, and policymakers come together to share insights, present groundbreaking research, and explore solutions to pressing healthcare challenges. The conference is designed to cover a wide range of topics, including patient-centered care, advancements in nursing technology, evidence-based midwifery practices, and strategies for overcoming global health disparities.

Attendees will benefit from a rich array of keynote speeches, interactive panel discussions, and hands-on workshops led by distinguished experts from around the world. The congress also highlights the critical role of nursing and midwifery in shaping resilient healthcare systems and addressing global health crises such as maternal health, chronic diseases, and aging populations.

Join us for an unforgettable experience as we collectively strive to elevate nursing and midwifery practices and ensure a healthier future for all.

We look forward to seeing you at Global Nursing 2025
