About Vancouver

Situated in the Lower Mainland region of British Columbia, Vancouver is a significant metropolis in western Canada. With 662,248 residents in the city as of the 2021 Canadian census—up from 631,486 in 2016—it is the most populated city in the province. With 2.6 million residents as of 2021, the Metro Vancouver area is the third-largest metropolitan area in Canada. With a population of over 3 million, the Lower Mainland is made up of Greater Vancouver and the Fraser Valley. Vancouver has the fourth-highest population density in North America (after New York City, San Francisco, and Mexico City), and the highest in Canada at over 5,700 people per square kilometer (15,000/sq mi).

As one of the most linguistically and ethnically diverse cities in Canada, Vancouver is home to 49.3% of non-native English speakers, 47.8% of native French speakers, and 54.5 percent of members of visible minority groups. It has continuously been listed as one of the world's and Canada's most livable cities.Vancouver is among the most expensive cities in the world and in Canada with regard to housing affordability . The urban planning design concept of the city is known as Vancouverism.
