About the conference

The 26th World Nursing Education Conference is a prestigious international gathering that will be held in the vibrant city of Dubai, UAE, on November 14–15, 2026. This conference serves as a dynamic platform for nursing educators, healthcare professionals, researchers, academic leaders, and policymakers from around the world to connect, collaborate, and advance the future of nursing education.

At its core, the conference is a hub of innovation, leadership, and knowledge exchange, cantered on the theme “Transforming Nursing Education Through Innovation, Leadership, and Global Collaboration.” Inspired by Dubai’s commitment to excellence in healthcare and education, the event offers a unique opportunity to explore emerging trends, innovative teaching methods, digital learning technologies, leadership strategies, and global partnerships that are shaping the next generation of nursing professionals.

Scope and Importance

The 26th World Nursing Education Conference is dedicated to advancing excellence in nursing education by bringing together educators, researchers, clinicians, healthcare leaders, and policymakers from across the globe. The conference focuses on the latest developments in nursing education, including competency-based learning, simulation and clinical training, digital education, artificial intelligence, curriculum innovation, evidence-based teaching, leadership development, patient safety, and interprofessional collaboration. These emerging approaches are transforming the way future nurses are educated and prepared for modern healthcare environments.

The importance of this conference lies in its commitment to strengthening the global nursing workforce through innovation, leadership, and academic excellence. With the increasing demand for qualified nurses and evolving healthcare challenges, the event provides a valuable platform for sharing research, exchanging best practices, fostering international collaborations, and promoting lifelong learning. By encouraging innovative educational strategies and global partnerships, the conference contributes to improving nursing competencies, enhancing healthcare quality, and ensuring better patient outcomes worldwide.
