Welcome Message from Ms. Toyin Ojora-Saraki

Dear Colleagues,

I am delighted to be a Keynote Speaker at the Third World Congress on Public Health and Nutrition, and welcome the opportunity to invite you to attend the event that will be taking place in London in February.

The event promises to be an opportunity for healthcare professionals, advocates, policymakers and academics to come together to share and explore ideas in the field of public health, in pursuit of tangible improvements in healthcare and nutrition around the world.

This year's theme, "Impediment to Exploration of Public Health Challenges in a Globalizing World" is a subject close to my heart. As a Nigerian, and an advocate for improved healthcare across the African continent, I believe that it is vital to address the limitations to public health, most of which are particularly evasive in Africa. The world is changing, and we have already seen the effects, both positive and negative, of globalisation on African health systems.

In my speech, I will be demonstrating the critical need for investment in primary healthcare, the cornerstone of public health, with a special focus on midwifery. As the Founder-President of the Wellbeing Foundation Africa, Africa's premier maternal health charity, I have seen first-hand the impact that midwifery and primary healthcare have on individuals and communities. I want to use this opportunity at the Public Health and Nutrition Congress to highlight the impact of midwifery on broader health outcomes, discuss the challenges the field faces, and suggest some solutions to overcome the obstacles that blight efforts to advance maternal care globally.

I look forward to sharing my thoughts, and hearing those of others in the field.

Kind regards,

Toyin Ojora-Saraki
