- Quantum Science
- Quantum Field Theories
- Quantum Mechanics
- String Theory & Quantum Gravity
- Quantum Chromodynamics
- Quantum Condensed Matter Physics
- Quantum Transport
- Quantum Optics
- Quantum Information & Quantum Computing
- Quantum Technology

Why to Attend Quantum Physics 2018?

Top-notch speakers, enriched sessions and captivating subject matters - all of these on a single podium! Learn about the trends and their usage in the business and expand your info-base as well at Quantum Physics 2018, London.

Young Researchers' Forum

Young scholars are not just new intros in the scientific community, rather are the up surging minds with huge potential to take the advances in the Quantum Physics and Quantum Technology segment to a height anew.

We'd love to have these exceptional students speak and share their ideas for a major brain-storming session.

Young Researchers' Forum

A very few students can hold on to the opportunity of giving an Oral Presentation along with those highly affiliated expert minds. Exceptional abstracts can grab this chance and exhibit their research verbally.

Who can be in YRF?

- Any fledgling and budding scientist/researcher below the age of 33 years
- Post-Graduate students, Post-doctoral fellows, Trainees, Junior faculty

What can they achieve?

- A platform to showcase their innovative ideas
- An opportunity to interact with speakers with high research experience and established industrialists
- Award will be presented to the best YRF talk

Getting Around London

The Eternal City: London!

There are many accents that are traditionally thought of as London accents. The most well-known of the London accents long ago acquired the Cockney label, which is heard both in London itself, and across the wider South East England region more generally. The accent of a 21st-century Londoner varies widely; what is becoming more and more common amongst the under-30s however is some fusion of Cockney with a whole array of ethnic accents, in particular Caribbean, which form an accent labeled Multicultural London English (MLE).The other widely heard and spoken accent is RP (Received Pronunciation) in various forms, which can often be heard in the media and many of other traditional professions and beyond, although this accent is not limited to London and South East England, and can also be heard selectively throughout the whole UK amongst certain social groupings.

Glorious Food!

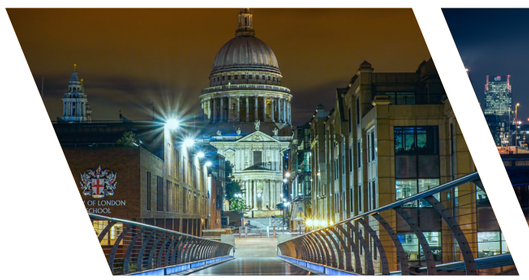

London may have a serious claim to the accolade of ‘world’s best food city’, but with ever-ludicrous living costs putting the kibosh on the concept of spare cash, we’ll be damned if we can afford it. A tasty meal in London doesn’t need to break the bank! Whether you’re looking for lowprice lunch options or good value eateries, there’s an affordable restaurant to satisfy every craving, whatever the time of day. Everything here has been budgeted at £10 a head or less, and we’ve sought out variety – London is a haven for lunch spots, and many are affordable. From beigel bakeries to pie shops to deli sandwiches, there’s something for everyone on a budget looking for lunch in the capital.
