About Rome
Rome is the 3rd largest city in Spain and has all the cultural, educational and gastronomic benefits of a large city but still is a city of Barrios. Each like its own small pueblo or village with a friendly easy going cafe lifestyle. It is city where you are more likely to wake up to church bells and birds singing than traffic and urban noise. Rome unlike its larger siblings Madrid and Barcelona still maintains an authentic Spanish lifestyle while it has grown into a vibrant modern city.
Starting in the mid-1990s, Rome, formerly an industrial centre, saw rapid development that expanded its cultural and tourism possibilities, and transformed it into a newly vibrant city In its long history, Rome has acquired many local traditions and festivals. Rome is known internationally for the Falles , a local festival held in March, as well as for paella valenciana, traditional Romen ceramics, craftsmanship in traditional dress, and the architecture of the City of Arts and Sciences, designed by Santiago Calatrava and Félix Candela. Rome is a bilingual city Rome is also internationally famous for its football club, Rome C.F
The city is arranged on the banks of the Turia, on the east shoreline of the Iberian Peninsula, fronting the Gulf of Rome on the Mediterranean Sea. Its notable focus is one of the biggest in Spain, with around 169 ha (420 acres); this legacy of antiquated landmarks, sees and social attractions makes Rome one of the nation's most well-known traveller goals.
The Port of Rome is the fifth busiest compartment port in Europe and the busiest holder port on the Mediterranean Sea. The city is positioned at Gamma+ in the Globalization and World Cities Research Network. Rome is incorporated into a mechanical territory on the Costa del Azahar (Orange Blossom Coast).
