About Moscow, Russia

Moscow is the capital and most populous city of Russia, with 12.2 million residents within the city limits and 17.1 million within the urban area. Moscow is recognized as a Russian federal city. Moscow is situated on the Moskva River in the Central Federal District of European Russia, making it Europe's most populated inland city. The city is well known for its architecture, particularly its historic buildings such as Saint Basil's Cathedral with its brightly colored domes. With over 40 percent of its territory covered by greenery, it is one of the greenest capitals and major cities in Europe and the world, having the largest forest in an urban area within its borders more than any other major city even before its expansion in 2012. Moscow is a major political, economic, cultural, and scientific centre of Russia and Eastern Europe, as well as the largest city on the European continent. By broad definitions Moscow is one of the world's largest cities, being the 14th largest metro area, the 18th largest agglomeration, the 15th largest urban area, and the 11th largest by population within city limits worldwide.

According to Forbes 2013, Moscow has been ranked as the ninth most expensive city in the world by Mercerand has one of the world's largest urban economies, being ranked as an alpha global city according to the Globalization and World Cities Research Network and it is also one of the fastest growing tourist destinations in the world according to the MasterCard Global Destination Cities Index.

the global cardiology devices market size was valued to USD 15.14 billion in the year 2013. Key growth drivers of cardiology include the growing adoption rates of minimally invasive surgeries, increasing global prevalence of cardiovascular diseases and the technological advancement introduced in this field. The number of minimum invasive surgeries conducted has been increased from 669.5 thousand in 2005 to 805 thousand in the year 2014. Europe was the 2nd largest region in 2014, with the rising incidences of obesity and changing lifestyle habits like; irregularity dietary and growing number of smokers that are responsible for the growth of cardiovascular disease.
