About London

London, the capital of England and UK, it could be 21st-century city with history stretching back to Roman times. At its center stand the imposing Houses of Parliament, the iconic 'Big Ben' clock tower and Westminster Abbey, site of British monarch coronations on other side of Thames River, from London Eye we can see panoramic views of the South Bank cultural complex and the entire city. London is not a city in the sense that the word applies in the United Kingdom, that of having city status granted by the Crown.

From 2011 census recorded that 2,998,264 people of London's population are foreign born making London the city with the second largest immigrant population, behind New York City, in terms of absolute numbers. 19th and early 20th centuries the most populous city in the world. Its population peaked at 8,615,245 in 1939 immediately before the outbreak of the Second World War, but had declined to 7,192,091 at the 2001 Census. However, the population then grew by just over a million between the 2001 and 2011 Censuses, to reach 8,173,941.
