Dubai is situated on the Eastern shore of the Arabian Peninsula, in the south west corner of the Arabian Gulf. With year-round sunshine, charming deserts, wonderful shorelines, sumptuous lodgings and shopping centers, interesting legacy attractions and a flourishing business network, Dubai gets a large number of recreation and business guests every year from around the globe. From the immortal serenity of the desert to the vivacious clamor of the souk, Dubai offers a kaleidoscope of attractions for guests. The emirate grasps a wide assortment of landscape in a little territory. In a solitary day, the tourist can encounter everything from rugged mountains and remarkable sand ridges to sandy shorelines and rich green parks, from dusty towns to extravagant private areas and from old houses with wind towers to ultra-present day shopping centers. The emirate is both a dynamic global business focus and a laid-back visitor get away from; a city where the modernity of the 21st century strolls connected at the hip with the effortlessness of a former period. Be that as it may, these differences give Dubai its one of a kind flavor and character; a cosmopolitan culture with a global way of life, yet with a culture profoundly established in the Islamic customs of Arabia. Dubai, with a region of 3,885 square kilometers, is the second biggest emirate in the UAE. Arranged on the banks of the Dubai Creek, a characteristic channel from the Gulf which partitions the city into the Deira region to its north and Bur Dubai on its south, the city positions as the UAE's most significant port and business focus.
