INVITATION

ABOUT CONFERENCE

By successfully hosting our previous editions, we are delighted to announce the 3rd International Conference on Pain Management (Pain Management 2026) scheduled for May 21–22, 2026 in London, UK. The conference will revolve around the theme: “Redefining Pain Management: Precision, Innovation, and Patient-Centered Care.” Pain Management 2026 will bring together leading clinicians, researchers, academicians, healthcare professionals, and industry experts from around the world to discuss emerging trends, advanced therapies, and multidisciplinary approaches in pain care. The primary goal of the conference is to explore innovative, evidence-based strategies that enhance patient outcomes, promote opioid-sparing practices, and integrate technology-driven solutions in pain management.

The scientific program will feature keynote presentations, plenary sessions, interactive workshops, oral and poster presentations, offering extensive opportunities for knowledge exchange, networking, and global collaboration. Set against the vibrant and dynamic backdrop of Dubai, this event promises both academic excellence and an inspiring international experience. We eagerly look forward to your valuable research contributions and active participation in making Pain Management 2026 a transformative and impactful event for the global pain care community.

YOUNG RESEARCH FORUM:

We are pleased to announce the Young Scientist Awards at the 3rd International Conference on Pain Management (Pain Management 2026) scheduled for May 21–22, 2026, in London, UK. The conference will be held under the inspiring theme: “Redefining Pain Management: Precision, Innovation, and Patient-Centered Care.” Pain Management 2026 and its upcoming editions aim to recognize and honor outstanding young researchers who have made significant contributions to the field of pain medicine and clinical research. The Young Scientist Award is designed to encourage early-career professionals, postgraduate researchers, and young clinicians to showcase their innovative work and academic excellence.

This award provides an exceptional platform for young investigators to present their research, engage with leading experts, exchange ideas, and expand their professional networks at an international level. By fostering collaboration and mentorship, Pain Management 2026 supports the next generation of scientists in advancing evidence-based and patient-centered pain care. We warmly invite young researchers to submit their abstracts and take advantage of this valuable opportunity to gain recognition and contribute to the global pain management community.

Past Event Report

Meetings International successfully hosted its previous virtual series of Pain Management conferences, bringing together experts, clinicians, and researchers from around the globe. The event featured the 2nd International Conference on Pain Management, held virtually during March 20–21, 2024.

The webinar was organized under the theme “Innovations in Pain Therapy: Bridging Research and Clinical Practice,” and it was highly successful with robust participation.

Eminent speakers, leading researchers, and industry professionals shared insights on chronic pain, neuropathic pain, interventional procedures, regenerative medicine, and digital health applications in pain management. The active involvement and support of the organizing committee, speakers, and delegates were pivotal in making the event impactful.

We extend our sincere gratitude to all speakers, participants, and partners whose contributions and engagement helped in the success of the webinar. Their collaborative spirit continues to inspire the ongoing mission of Pain Management 2026 to advance global pain research and clinical practice.

About Venue:

Pain Management 2026 will be held in London, United Kingdom—one of the world's most influential cities for healthcare innovation, academic excellence, and clinical research. As a global hub for medicine and life sciences, London is home to leading universities, research centers, and internationally recognized teaching hospitals, making it an ideal destination for advancing dialogue in comprehensive pain management.

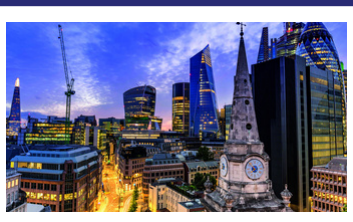

The city offers outstanding international accessibility through major airports including Heathrow and Gatwick, with direct connections to destinations across Europe, Asia, the Americas, and the Middle East. London's efficient public transportation system—featuring the Underground, rail services, and extensive bus networks—ensures convenient travel throughout the city for all delegates.

Beyond its academic prominence, London provides a vibrant cultural experience. Attendees can explore iconic landmarks, world-class museums, historic architecture, and diverse culinary offerings, creating an enriching experience beyond the scientific sessions. The city's modern conference infrastructure, premium hospitality services, and wide range of accommodation options—from luxury hotels to business-friendly stays—ensure comfort and convenience for international participants.

Hosting Pain Management 2026 in London reflects the conference's commitment to global collaboration, research excellence, and multidisciplinary innovation. We look forward to welcoming delegates from around the world to connect, exchange knowledge, and shape the future of pain management in one of the most dynamic medical capitals of the world.
