Invitation

Welcome to Paris, the City of Arts and Science, and experience the science of Primary Care 2018 illuminated as never before. EuroSciCon is proud to host the 7th International Conference on Family Medicine & Primary Care, February 22-23, 2018, France. This year's theme is Exposed to Innovative Family Medicine and Primary Care. Primary Care 2018 will provide an unprecedented opportunity for Physicians of all stripes and colors to share their research with colleagues, and discuss and debate the latest advances in the field of Family Medicine. We invite Physicians, Nurse, and scientists in related disciplines to come together and inform each other in an environment conducive to education and interaction. Seasoned scientists, young researchers, mid-career professionals and just starting out are all welcome.

With a broad array of keynote presentations, panel discussions, workshops, and poster sessions, the 7th International Conference on Family Medicine & Primary Care is the perfect venue not only to dive into your particular Health Care interests but also to expand the scope of your knowledge. 24 tracks are devoted to subjects such as the Palliative Care, Asthma, Aspects Of Primary Health Care, Community Health Services, Health Care Delivery, Depression, Primary Care: Leadership And Effective Government, Hypertension.

The Organizing Committee has done its best to set up a framework that we think will allow for a creative interplay of ideas. All we need now to convert the extensive program on paper to an active and vibrant Health Care forum in person is your active participation.

About Destination Paris

Paris (About this sound listen) is the capital and most populous city of France. It has an area of 105 square kilometres (41 square miles) and a population of 2,229,621 in 2015 within its administrative limits. The city is both a commune and department and forms the centre and headquarters of the Ile-de-France, or Paris Region, which has an area of 12,012 square kilometres (4,638 square miles) and a population in 2016 of 12,142,802, comprising roughly 18 percent of the population of France. By the 17th century, Paris was one of Europe's major centres of finance, commerce, fashion, science, and the arts, and it retains that position still today.

Around its historical heart, the small Ile de la Cite, the City of Paris stretches on both sides of the Seine River, which divides it into two parts: the Rive Gauche (Left Bank, south) and Rive Droite (Right Bank, north). The city proper is but the core of a built-up area that extends well beyond its administrative limits. Commonly referred to as the agglomeration Parisienne, and statistically as a unite urbaine (a measure of urban area), the agglomeration has a 2013 population of 10,601,122, which makes it the largest in the European Union.
