About Destination Valencia, Spain

Valencia is the capital of the autonomous community of Valencia and the third-largest city in Spain after Madrid and Barcelona. The wider urban area also comprising the neighboring municipalities has a population of around 1.6 million. The Port of Valencia is the 5th-busiest container port in Europe and the busiest container port on the Mediterranean Sea. The city is ranked as a Gamma-level global city by the Globalization and World Cities Research Network.

Starting in the mid-1990s, Valencia, formerly an industrial center, saw rapid development that expanded its cultural and tourism possibilities, and transformed it into a newly vibrant city. Many local landmarks were restored, including the ancient Towers of the medieval city (Serrans Towers and Quart Towers), and the Sant Miquel dels Reis monastery (Monasterio de San Miguel de los Reyes), which now holds a conservation library. Whole sections of the old city, for example the Carmen Quarter, have been extensively renovated. The Passeig Marítim, a 4 km long palm tree-lined promenade was constructed along the beaches of the north side of the port. The city is an international hub of highly active and diverse nightlife with bars, dance bars and nightclubs staying open well past midnight.

Valencia is known internationally for the Falles, a local festival held in March, as well as for paella valenciana, traditional Valencian ceramics, craftsmanship in traditional dress, and the architecture of the City of Arts and Sciences, designed by Santiago Calatrava and Félix Candela.

There are also a number of well-preserved traditional Catholic festivities throughout the year. Holy Week celebrations in Valencia are considered some of the most colorful in Spain
